

MCPB Desktop Extensions Submission Form

Thank you for building tools that make Claude more powerful. This form helps us understand your Desktop Extension and gauge interest in being part of Anthropic's directory of extensions inside Claude for macOS and Windows.

This form is for local MCP servers - to submit interest for your remote MCP server, see this form.

Overview: Claude for macOS and Windows currently features a small directory of featured extensions. We are looking for a small number of community-built extensions to add to our featured directory.

Why we're building this: We believe that desktop AI software like Claude for macOS and Windows can have their powers augmented the same way traditional apps are customized with extensions. Users need a place to discover high-quality local MCP servers. By featuring developers like you, we're creating a go-to resource that drives more users to your server while also advancing the MCP ecosystem.

Requirements:

We expect both the Desktop Extension specification and the implementation in Claude for macOS and Windows to evolve over time. At this time, we're primarily considering extensions that:

- Publicly available on GitHub
- MIT licensed
- Built with Node.js
- Have a valid manifest.json with the "author" field pointed at your GitHub profile

In addition, please see our recommended best practices for guidance on what Anthropic may prioritize when considering servers for inclusion in the directory -- note that these guidelines are subject to change.

Next steps

If you're interested, please fill out the below information. Due to a high volume of submissions, we can't guarantee we'll respond to all submissions or that we'll be able to respond within a certain timeframe. Thank you for understanding!

Please note that submitting this form does not guarantee inclusion. Anthropic will reach out to selected developers if and when we're ready to begin the evaluation process.

By submitting this form, you are authorizing Anthropic to process the information submitted in accordance with its Privacy Policy.
